PHILOSOPHICAL
GROUP ELECTS
MEYER AS HEAD

Ousted M. U. Professor
Receives Unanimous Vote

GETS GREAT OVATION

Dr. Carl Rexroad Also on Program of Southern Society

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 30 (U.P.)—Dr. Max F. Meyer, ousted professor of psychology at the University of Missouri, was unanimously elected president of the Southern Society for Philosophy and Psychology in convention here today.

Contrary to expectations the convention did not discuss Dr. Meyer's sex questionnaire, nor did the ousted professor refer to it although a copy of it found its way before the meeting.

It was said authoritatively that the advisory council met last night and decided to withhold discussion of the questionnaire. The council then voted unanimously to support Dr. Meyer for the presidency.

Outside the convention it was the general consensus that Prof. Meyer will be reinstated and that the less said about the questionnaire the sooner the resultant scandal will die down.

After electing Dr. Meyer the society voted to hold its next meeting in Nashville, Tenn., with Vanderbilt University and Peabody College as joint hosts.

New members elected to the society included: Carl N. Rexroad, Columbia, Mo.; C. W. Bock, St. Louis; J. R. Kirk, Kirksville, Mo.; W. B. Smith, Columbia, Mo.; and Gladys Johnson, St. Louis.

Election of the suspended professor was generally interpreted by delegates as a vote of confidence in his outstanding ability and in his peculiar fight at the University of Missouri. He was given a rousing welcome when he appeared before the convention. Adoption of a resolution formally expressing such confidence was believed likely.

Dr. Meyer received a great ovation when he entered the meeting of the Southern Society of Philosophy and Psychology at Lexington, Ky., yesterday.

The society meeting, which was to have been in Columbia but was changed to Lexington soon after Dr. Meyer's dismissal, was to close late today.

Dr. Meyer and Dr. Carl Rexroad of Stephens College arrived in Lexington about noon yesterday. After the regular meeting, Dr. Meyer went into executive session with the other members of the council. There was no indication of what business the council would take up. Dr. Meyer was scheduled for a speech later in the day, but refused to discuss what he would say.

Other speakers on the program included Dr. Rexroad, J. R. Kirk of the Missouri State Teachers' College, and C. A. S. Dwight, Eureka College.

The Weather

For Columbia and vicinity: Partly cloudy to cloudy tonight and Sunday; probably rain by or before Sunday night; continued rather cool.

For Missouri: Rain probably to night and Sunday; not much change in temperature.

Weather conditions: In nearly all the country east of the Mississippi River the weather is unsettled with scattered showers but no where very heavy. West of the Mississippi extending to the middle Pacific coast the weather is quite fine, except some little snow here and there in the upper plains states. However, a steep low pressure is developing in the southern Rocky Mountain plateau starting eastward, that already indicates a reaction to rainy weather over the plains and as far east as Missouri by Sunday. It is cold along the northern border; chilly to moderate in central and southern sections.

At 6:45 o'clock in the evening a union vesper service will be conducted in the Stephens College auditorium.

Baptism of children and the reception of new members will precede the service at the First Presbyterian Church. After the children's baptism a talk will be given to them on the subject of "The Butterfly." The children's exit march will precede the reception of the older new members. Special music will be included on the morning program.

Werner Calls Signers Pickers
KANSAS CITY, March 30 (U.P.)—Representative Carl Werner, talked of pickers and "damned liars" at his home here last night when questioned for a statement regarding charges that letters signed by more than a score of his fellow legislators at Jefferson City differed from those released to the press.

"They signed the original and I have it," Werner, who is owner of a plumbing and heating company here, said. "If they want to back out they can, but my name sticks."

WAR FRONT OF
QUESTIONNAIRE
BATTLE SHIFTS

Capital Is Center of Controversy After Petition

12 OF SIGNERS REPUDIATE

Did Not Understand What
They Were Endors-
ing, They Say

JEFFERSON CITY, March 30 (U.P.)—Bitter controversy split the State Legislature today as the main front of Missouri's war over the circulation of a "sex questionnaire" among the students of the State University, shifted from Columbia to the capital.

The main question at issue today was: "Who, if any, of the twenty-one representatives, whose typewritten signatures appeared at the bottom of a 'round robin' petition given out in copy form to the press yesterday by Representative Carl P. Werner of Kansas City, really signed the petition?"

Twelve of them have repudiated it. Some said they signed it unknowingly. Some said they signed a similar petition but not the one Werner gave out, which severely criticizes Dr. Stratton D. Brooks, president of the University. One declared he signed no document of that nature at all.

The original of the petition, Werner told newspaper men when he gave out the copies, had been sent by him to Judge James E. Goodrich of Kansas City, president of the University Board of Curators. He said he drew up and circulated it.

Charges Incompetency
The petition received by the press charged Dr. Brooks with "incompetency." It demanded the reinstatement of Prof. Max Meyer, famous psychologist, Prof. C. D. Craft, sociology instructor, and student assistant, O. H. Mower, all three of whom were dismissed from the faculty because of their part in circulating the questionnaire.

It concluded with a threat: "Pass this on to the other curators if you want a deserving share of the available money of the treasury of the state."

Werner's stenographer said that the typewritten signatures listed on the petition were taken from actual signatures in the original petition which had been sent to Judge Goodrich.

Immediately upon publication of the letter here, things began to happen at the State Capitol. One after another the representatives who could be reached repudiated the petition, some of them bitterly.

Signers Repudiate Petition
Statements from some of them were as follows:

Representative Dewey B. West, Douglas County, denied he had signed any petition at all. He recollected, however, that he signed at Werner's request, an endorsement of a political friend of Werner's.

Representative Louis Hehl, St. Louis: "I was under a great misapprehension when I signed that petition. Werner slipped one over on me."

Representative James C. Putnam, Howell County: "I signed a piece of paper with only about three or four lines on it. Werner told me it was only a request of the curators to reinstate the faculty members."

Representative Albert J. Applebaum, St. Louis: "I did not know the threat against the curators was in the letter. I never would have signed anything like it."

Representative Albert A. Huber, St. Louis: "I signed something for Werner, but I never saw this petition before. A fast one has been put over on me."

Representative Fred Spearman, Miller County: "Werner stuck something under my nose and I signed it. I didn't know what I was signing. I thought it was an application for a job for some friend of his."

Representative Louis C. Golterman of Warren County sent a letter to Judge Goodrich repudiating his signature.

Deny Attack on Brooks
Representatives Wren, Bauer, Stinson, Hicks and Smith also denied the charge that they signed anything in the petition attacking Dr. Brooks or threatening the board.

Meanwhile the House Committee on Appropriations of which Representative Hehl is a member has announced it will recommend appropriations of more than $3,000,000 for the University, nearly $2,000,000 over the last biennial appropriation and nearly $500,000 over the amount recommended by the State Tax Commission in its budget. The sex questionnaire was not discussed by the committee, members said.

Brooks Makes No Statement
President Stratton D. Brooks, who is in the Ozarks for the Easter holidays, in a long-distance talk with a reporter here today said "that he had no statement to make in regard to the letter sent out yesterday by twenty-two legislators" until after the meeting of the Board of Curators here April 6.

Easter

On Easter Day
We all must go
In fine array
For pomp and show;
Out in the streets
Gay colors rise—
Expensive treats
For adoring eyes.
Brilliant and gay,
Jealous and proud,
This is the way
Our modern crowd
Heeds the call
Of the Day of Days—
Remembering all
But the Song of Praise.

Death on a cross—then life again—
Dust-clouds raised to glory!
Hope for the lost generations of men,
Light in the sky where the clouds had been—
THAT is the Easter Story.

RAIN PREDICTED

There will be little change in temperature and it will continue to be cool. This is general all over the state with probable showers. Columbia is in the path of a low pressure area that is sweeping eastward from the Rocky Mountain plateau, indicating rainy weather over the plains and as far east as Missouri by tomorrow.

APPROPRIATION
OF $3,019,640 TO
M. U. IN 1929-30

Is $192,732 More Than
Amount Received
Last Time

$10,000 FOR JESSE HALL

$100,000 Given to Finish
Home Economics and Medical Bldgs.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 30 (U.P.)—That the controversy over the sex questionnaire which was circulated among the students of the University of Missouri will not interfere with the institution's appropriation was indicated today when the House Committee recommended an increased appropriation of almost $200,000 over two years ago.

The amount recommended by the committee for the University for the years 1929 and 1930 exceeds the appropriation for the last biennial period by $192,732. It exceeds the amount recommended by the Tax Commission in its budget by $438,440.

Money was appropriated for the completion of the Home Economics Building and the Medical Building, which have been standing in an uncompleted condition for the last four years.

A sub-committee, headed by Representative Frank H. Hopkins of Atchison County, today recommended a total appropriation of $3,019,640 for the University for the biennial period.

The committee recommended $2,100,000 for support and maintenance, which is the same as the appropriation for two years ago. The Tax Commission's budget recommended only $2,000,000.

An appropriation of $40,000 for the completion of a Home Economics Building and $55,000 for the completion of a Medical Building were recommended with provision for an additional $5000 for equipment in the former building. The completion of the fourth floor of Jesse Hall at a cost of $10,000 is proposed.

No other building appropriations were recommended. Hopkins said the revenue "would not stand a further drain for buildings, but he said it was considered good business to finish the buildings which had been authorized by previous legislatures."

Among some of the other items recommended for the University city were: Library, $80,000; winter courses in agriculture, $26,000; hospital, $25,000; University extension, $75,000, an increase of $30,000; agricultural extension, $300,000, an increase of $175,000; experiment stations, $50,000; soil and crop fields, $25,000.

The committee was unusually liberal in the recommendation of appropriations for agricultural development. The Tax Commission recommended only $175,000 for agricultural extension service. This the committee raised to $300,000. It also gave the University $300,000 more than it gave two years ago for University extension work.

The appropriation recommended being $75,000 as against only $45,000 for the years 1927 and 1928.

The other items carried in the appropriation bill followed the recommendations of the State Tax Commission.
